Hbbillns freight wagons

The 2459 series Hbbillns 2-axle sliding wall wagon is a familiar sight across continental Europe. Initially owned by AAE and leased to numerous railways - including SBB, ČD, ZSSK, BDZ, PKP, ÖBB and ŽSR - the fleet was later acquired by Transwaggon. These wagons have remained a popular choice among both state and private operators, from Sweden to Bulgaria.

Our models represent both flat and corrugated side wall versions. While most feature an aluminium finish, many - particularly in Switzerland - are adorned with bold, colourful graffiti. Though sometimes controversial, these graffiti-covered wagons have become true collector's items. You'll want to own them all.

About us

The history of our company

Established in 2014, Albert-Modell has swiftly emerged as a known name in the world of model railway manufacturing. Our international presence, which commenced in 2017, marks a significant milestone in our journey. At Albert-Modell, our primary focus rests on producing exquisitely detailed models of Eastern European freight wagons, alongside an impressive range of diesel locomotives, but our range includes more and more models from countries like Germany and Switzerland.

Our philosophy is anchored in the belief that model-making is an art that demands precision, detail, and affordability. We strive to blend these elements, offering our clients high-quality, intricately designed models at a price that respects their passion and investment in this hobby.

Our products are crafted not merely as toys, but as collectibles, with a dedication to craftsmanship.

We pride ourselves on producing models in limited quantities, ensuring that each piece we create is not just a model but an elegant representation of the original. This approach underlines our commitment to quality over quantity, making our models sought-after items for collectors and enthusiasts who value exclusivity and authenticity.
